Media alert: First Congress of the European Academy of Neurology, Berlin, Germany; Press Conference 22 June 2015

The First Congress of the European Academy of Neurology (EAN) will take place in Berlin, Germany, from 20 to 23 June, 2015. This major scientific event will attract around 6,500 participants from European and non-European countries. The European Academy of Neurology was created last year by the two neurological associations, the European Federation of Neurological Societies (EFNS) and the European Neurological Society (ENS).

In the course of around 130 scientific sessions, international experts will present and discuss important trends and highlights of modern neurological research and therapy as well as new scientific findings. The scientific programme can be found at: www.eaneurology.org/berlin2015/Scientific-Programme.1868.0.html.
